OLYMPIC TRAINING PROGRAM SET FOR VERNON IN AUGUST

VERNON (STAFF)—The Provincial track finals, of the Junior Olympic training program sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion will be held in Vernon August 2-5, it was announced here today. About 600 athletes and coaches from all parts of the province are expected to attend.

The four-day meet, according to Ray Carlton, secretary manager of the Vernon Legion, will include a clinic for athletes and coaches. Top track stars in Canada and the United States will be invited and army cadets from the Vernon Military Camp, which will be in session at that time, will provide competition but will not be part of the Olympic training program.

The week following the Vernon meet, the national finals will be held in Guelph, Ontario, and some winners from B.C. are expected to take part. The program is designed for youngsters between 14 and 17 years old. It is stated at this time competitors and coaches will be housed in a tent city to be erected near the Legion from where they will be fed.

BC Graft Probe Ponders Whether Estimate Too High

VICTORIA (CP)—Was Estimate No. 4 $100,000 high? The question was the crux of examination today as the British Columbia legislature's committee on public accounts continued hearings into allegations of graft in the highways department.

Mr. Strachan quoted Mr. Webster as saying last week that the $100,000 could be explained by the fact that the resident engineer on the project was making up for conservative estimates on previous work done.

But he added that a study of work sheets from the project and of Estimate No. 4 shows that the conservative estimate amounted only to $8,333. "We still haven't been answered where the $100,000 came from," said Mr. Strachan.

Liberal Tells U.S. Businessmen Party's Columbia Treaty View

PORTLAND, Ore. (CP)—Liberal Jack Davis today handed a group of American businessmen half a dozen reasons why his party does not accept the Columbia River Power Treaty and wants it renegotiated.

He said the treaty binds Canada to vast spending, with no guarantee and little hope of getting the money back. The Liberal's power expert, who seeks re-election in the federal election in the next-coming constituency April 8, spoke to the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

He suggested the still-unratified treaty should be renegotiated "in the matter of principles only." This would take "only a matter of months."

He said the Liberal party opposes it in its existing form. ADVANTAGE ZERO The downstream power it entails would be brought back to British Columbia at a cost of four mills per kilowatt hour, so high the net advantage to Co-

Canadian Fights Extradition After Arrest On High Seas

HONOLULU (CP-AP)—A Canadian deported from Australia and arrested by FBI agents aboard a British liner here is fighting extradition to California to face burglary charges.

Martin E. Maher, 37, has questioned the legality of his arrest on the liner Iberia in a circuit court extradition hearing. The hearing is in recess until Wednesday.

Maher was deported from Australia March 11 and was en route to Vancouver when arrested here Feb. 21.

At the hearing here last week British Consul Wilfred Illidge told the court Maher had been deported from Australia because he had been in a mental hospital there. He said Australian officials had advised medical authorities in Vancouver to meet Maher as he came off the ship, and urged that he be released on humanitarian grounds.

In Canberra today, however, a spokesman for the Australian overseas immigration department said Maher had been ordered out of the country because he had a criminal record in Australia. He said Maher, who had given police various Canadian addresses, including South Essex, N.B., had also spent some time in a mental hospital.

CLAIMS ARREST ILLEGAL At the extradition hearing Maher's lawyer, Richard Sutton, argued that the FBI agent had no right to apprehend his client aboard the Iberia. A witness for Maher, John Goemans of the U.S. state department, also said the arrest was not legal under international law.

But John O'Shea, head of Honolulu's immigration department, said the FBI had every right to take Maher into custody "when the ship entered a United States port."

UBC Students Claim Drive Netted 150,000 Signatures

VANCOUVER (CP)—Un- enough people. We could have had another 100,000 signatures easily. Dr. Macdonald said the students had proved they understood the difference between education and demonstration.

"Their actions were most responsible," they have done a great service to the province." (See local stories pages 3 and 6) Although Dr. Macdonald was cool to the idea in a speech to a student meeting Thursday, he greeted a busload that returned to the campus Sunday night, saying: "I support what they have done. It was a tremendous performance that we didn't have before."

Two Vernon Boy Scouts Killed In Mortar Blast

THE SKULL OF A STEER erected by RCMP and army demolition experts, mark the scene of a fatal accident which killed two Vernon Boy Scouts, and seriously injured a third Saturday when a mortar shell exploded. The site, five miles south of Vernon known as the commonage, was at one time leased to the Army. It is still government land used for cattle grazing. Cleared area in centre of photograph is where the bodies of Donald Hope, 14, and Grant Morgan, 12, were found. (Courier Photo)

Second World War Shell Believed Struck With Axe

VERNON (STAFF)—An army demolition expert from Kamloops and Vernon RCMP continued to investigate the explosion of a mortar shell near the Vernon Military Camp Saturday which killed two Boy Scouts and seriously injured a third.

Dead is Donald Hope, 14, of 802-29 Crescent, Vernon, a former Daily Courier carrier boy, 2, of Okanagan Landing. Injured but in satisfactory condition with undisclosed injuries in hospital is David Crane, 13, of Okanagan Landing. All three were members of the 5th Vernon Scout Troop.

A second mortar bomb was found from information given to police late Saturday about one mile from the death site by Army Sgt. A. Morneau of Kamloops and Const. Ted Kelly of the Vernon detachment. The bomb which bears no fuse was to be exploded under supervision at noon today. The area has been under 24-hour guard since Saturday. It continues to-day and until army demolition squad from Kamloops complete investigations.

Sightseers Ignore Official Pleas And Flock Into Dangerous Area

An army spokesman in Vernon, who asked not be identified, said the military should not be involved in the mishap as it was miles from the boundaries of the Vernon Military Camp. But at the same time the spokesman said while the army leased the property where the accident occurred more than 20 years ago, the army was also responsible to return the land in the same condition it was acquired. He suggested this meant combing the area thoroughly for possible live ammunition.

Investigations by RCMP and the army Saturday and Sunday were hindered by sightseers who flocked to the area despite pleas by authorities to stay away due to the possible danger involved.

Mortar shells and other live ammunition has been found in the commonage area used by the military but now reverted to private use over the past 20 years.

Capt. Patrick Collins of the Vernon Military Camp said a group of army engineers are currently in the camp and alerted, but their role at this time is unknown. He said orders on any possible patrolling or clearing of the area must come from B.C. area headquarters in Vancouver.

In 1946, three teenage boys were killed and a fourth seriously injured in an almost identical accident. The boys at that time were digging for top soil when a mortar bomb was located and exploded killing Stan Kashuba and two Chudziec brothers. Mike Kashuba was injured. All were between 15 and 19 years old and from Vernon.

That accident took place about one mile south of the Saturday mishap and within yards of where the second mortar was found this weekend.

An inquest was started to view the bodies and is expected to continue Thursday.

BARD'S BONES MAY BE VIEWED Much Ado About A Tomb

STRATFORD ON AVON (Reuters)—An English restaurant manager, hoping to settle a centuries-old controversy, is waiting for permission to open William Shakespeare's tomb.

Jack Jones, 48, manager of the Judith Shakespeare Tea-room—named after the bard's youngest daughter—said "I think the controversy has been raging long enough."

Jones plans to apply to local church authorities for permission to open the tomb of Shakespeare and his wife, Anne Hathaway, in Stratford's ancient churchyard.

For at least 200 years scholars have been arguing that what little is known about William Shakespeare's life, 1564 to 1616, is inconsistent with the great sweep of culture and

Bank Robbers Net $100,000

ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Burglars broke into the night deposit safe of the National State Bank of Newark branch here and escaped with an estimated $100,000, police said today.

Soviet and U.S. In Hassle Over Deadlock at Geneva

GENEVA (Reuters)—The United States and Russia clashed at the 17-nation disarmament conference here today over which side is to blame for the deadlock in the nuclear test-ban talks.

United States delegate Charles Stille and Senyon Tsarapkin, his Soviet opposite number, had a sharp exchange over the number of annual international on-site inspections needed to police any future ban on nuclear weapons tests.

Tsarapkin said the two to three annual inspections offered by Russia had at first been accepted by the U.S. Stille retorted that this figure "never has been and is not acceptable."

The U.S. delegate said that if Russia persisted in its "take it or leave it" attitude it would be "crystal clear" who is responsible for failure of the talks.

"But we sincerely believe the negotiations will not fail; they must not fail," Stille added. Tsarapkin charged the U.S. "continues to sabotage negotiations by continuing to ignore the compromise on a quota (of inspections), which is the key to agreement."

"Enormous" Illegal Gambling Found By Ontario Crime Probe

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's 71-year-old judge, whose report follows 66 days of hearings last year as a one-man commission, "alarming" organized crime, no syndicate control and no corruption in the attorney-general's department.

In his 120,000-word report tabled in the legislature today, Ontario Provincial Police found that gamblers have had a happy hunting ground with "social" club charters, aided in the past by slow-moving machinery in the provincial secretary's department.

Tougher and more co-ordinated action against gamblers is recommended by the 71-year-old judge, whose report follows 66 days of hearings last year as a one-man commission.

Two high police officers linked in evidence with gamblers were hit by the commission. He recommended the removal of Deputy Commissioner James Bartlett of the Ontario Provincial Police and said the "usefulness" of Insp. Allan Stringer of Peterborough has ended.

He suggested study of the evidence against four other men—including two suspected former police officers—with a view to possible prosecution.

More Strikes To Hit France PARIS (Reuters)—Two more major French unions today decided to call strikes as representatives of 2,000,000 workers prepared to resume talks with the government on labor problems that have paralyzed the country for the last two weeks.

The Socialist, Catholic and Communist-led unions representing France's nationalized gas and electricity industries announced today they would stop work for four hours Wednesday and for a further four hours at a date to be set later. Meanwhile, leaders of 240,000 striking coal miners met the special "committee of wise men" set up by President de Gaulle last week, to discuss the disparity of wages between the nationalized and private industries.

In Laeq, Southern France, natural gas workers said they will continue negotiations on their pay demands.

profound understanding of the humanities demonstrated in the plays and poems attributed to him.

Some claim the real author of Shakespeare's plays was Christopher Marlowe, 1564-1593, author of the plays Tamburlaine and Dr. Faustus.

Other scholars favor Sir Francis Bacon, 1561-1626. Still others feel the plays were written by the 17th Earl of Oxford, 1550-1604.

A great many people believe the mystery can be solved by opening Shakespeare's tomb. However, the local townspeople are generally against the idea.

Some oppose it on sentimental grounds. Others say: "It would make us Stratfordians look such fools if we were wrong about Shakespeare."

Jones' desire to open Shakespeare's tomb springs from the belief that clues to the problem of the "bard of Avon" identity must have been buried with Shakespeare. Although no one is clear what the key might be, it has been suggested a document of some kind might be found inside the tomb.

A solemn warning cut into Shakespeare's tomb has this to say about interference with the grave: "Good friend, for Jesus sake forbear To dig the dust enclosed here: Hark! be the man that speaks these stanzas And with his hand moves my bones."

Cloak And Dagger "War" Thought Waged By Israel

New York Printers Vote Down Chance To Get Presses Rolling

NEW YORK (AP)—Printers have voted to continue their newspaper strike here, dimming hopes of getting night major dailies back on the streets this week.

By a margin of 64 ballots—1,621 to 1,557—the union printers voted Sunday to reject a contract settlement proposed by Mayor Robert Wagner and approved by publisher and union negotiators March 8.

The strike by Local 4 of the International Typographical Union began last Dec. 8—181 days ago—against four newspapers. Five other major dailies closed voluntarily at the same time. One, The Post, resumed publication March 4.

The vote raised the possibility that the ITU executive council might submit the proposed settlement to a referendum of the entire membership of a Local 4, including some 8,000 commercial printers and the 3,000-odd newspaper printers.

Two large units of the New York Newspaper Guild voted Sunday to extend their current contracts, as the printers had Swiss police earlier this month were implicated in a plot to kidnap Dr. Hans Krimm, a German missile expert. Dr. Krimm, of Munich, another German scientist on the same U.A.R. project, disappeared last September.

Swiss police informants confirmed an Israeli radio report that the alleged agents—an Israeli and an Austrian—fell into a trap set by the daughter of another German scientist.

They were said to have been arrested March 2 after meeting Heidi Goerke, daughter of Dr. Jens Goerke, in a restaurant in Basel, Switzerland. Basel is across the border from Loerach, Germany, where Krimm was working. Swiss police had been tipped off. A microphone was concealed at their table and their waiters were Swiss detectives.

DEVELOP WARHEADS?
The Israeli radio said the men tried to get Miss Goerke to persuade her father to abandon his work for the U.A.R., claiming he was helping develop weapons of mass destruction to be used against Israel. The Jerusalem Post says these are believed to be covert warheads for Egypt's Al Kahir missile.

The Swiss informants said the recorded conversation revealed the agents' part in an undercover operation directed at European scientists and industries working for Egypt.

This affair has ramifications in several other countries of West Europe, including Britain, police said. An attempt was made to kidnap Krimm, who was arrested Feb. 20. The source said the arrested agents were involved in the plot.

The agents will be tried before a Basel criminal court on charges of violating Swiss neutrality laws. The trial date has not been set.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 16-year-old Kamloops area boy suffering gunshot wounds and a five-year-old Kamloops girl who suffered head injuries in a fall from a horse were reported in fairly good condition here today after undergoing surgery in hospital.

Both were flown to hospital here Sunday from Kamloops by an RCMP rescue plane.

The girl, Sherry Portfield, underwent surgery for a depressed skull fracture.

The boy, from Chase, B.C., 35 miles southwest of Kamloops, was said by police to have written a suicide note then put the barrel of a rifle in his mouth and pulled the trigger.

Winter Electioneering Peril Shows Up For Party Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The perils of winter electioneering showed up in the week-end campaigning of the party leaders.

T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, missed a speaking engagement Sunday night at Kapuskasing, Ont., when bad weather there terminated his TCA flight at Toronto.

In Newfoundland, a blizzard and near-zero temperatures created Prime Minister Diefenbaker who spoke to a less-than-capacity crowd of 750 in St. John's Saturday. Earlier, his plane landed on one wheel at Sydney, N.S., when it was caught in a crosswind.

A snowstorm didn't deter Real Capote, deputy Social Credit leader, as he attracted eagerly crowds in a tour through Quebec's Saguenay region. More bothersome was a throat condition that left him hoarse.

An atmosphere of a different kind prevailed outside Liberal Leader Pearson's meeting Sunday afternoon at Quebec City.

Young band-thief pickets, reported to be from Laval University, were sharply pushed and jostled and had their eyes wrenched from their hands by about a dozen men, and trampled in the snow. Shouts of "Communists" were directed at the 35 pickets but no blows were struck.

One of the placard-snatchers, asked twice whether he was a Liberal, replied: "I am a nationalist."

FINALLY GETS ROSTRUM
Apparently unaware of the incident outdoors, Mr. Pearson waited through two hours of speeches by district candidates and others before he got the rostrum.

His audience was not so patient. At the outset it numbered about 2,500. But when Mr. Pearson finished fewer than 1,000 people remained. It was snowing hard outside at the time.

A crowd of 4,500 had turned out to hear Mr. Caouette in the same hall earlier in the campaign.

In the West, Social Credit leader Robert Thompson told 320 persons in a 700-seat Penticton, B.C., auditorium Saturday night that the Conservative and Liberal parties are senile.

"We are being led by policies which came out of the 19th century—by men who came out of the First World War," he said.

Disappearing from the campaign over the weekend was the Liberals' so-called "truth squad" which had been trailing Mr. Diefenbaker through the Atlantic provinces to "correct mis-statements of fact" in the prime minister's speeches.

The squad didn't show up at St. John's Saturday night.

On Sunday, Liberal campaign headquarters in Ottawa announced in a statement that the squad was being disbanded because it had been "misunderstood and misinterpreted" and because of "regrettable harassment" of squad leader Judy LaMarsh, Liberal candidate for re-election in Niagara Falls.

The party said "an observer" will attend Mr. Diefenbaker's meetings and "factual statements correcting inaccuracies will be issued as warranted."

Commenting Mr. Diefenbaker in his St. John's speech, where reports were current that the "truth squad" was being disbanded:

"It has been said, the truth shall make you free. It certainly freed that group."

He said in an obvious reference to Liberal Premier Smallwood:

"I want Newfoundland not to allow itself to be controlled by any one person."

Mr. Diefenbaker appealed plainly for greater support of conservative candidates in Newfoundland's seven federal ridings.

"You haven't returned us very many members—one in last year's election, two in 1958. This time I'm asking you to join the rest of Canada."

"I have never let you down. I have never measured what you deserve by the number of members you return."

Mr. Pearson said in his Quebec City speech, made mostly in French, that "French Canadians do not occupy their rightful place in this country" and said a new Liberal government would undertake a national study on biculturalism.

He also hit hard at Social Credit.

"I know that the Social Credit party makes all kinds of promises," he said.

But Mr. Pearson said that if such promises were possible, including more money for everybody, even Premier Khrushchev would have Social Credit.

IT'S A MENACE
Social Credit is a menace because "if Social Credit manages to gain a substantial number of seats in this province, then it will be able to prevent the formation of a stable government," Mr. Pearson said.

Meanwhile, at Jonquiere, Que., Mr. Caouette described the critics of Social Credit as "imbeciles," "fools," "animals," "blood-suckers who are draining the poor," and "diabolical leaders."

He said Canadians gave or loaned financial and material aid worth $7,000,000,000 to Britain during the war. What was possible in helping the British should also be possible in helping Canadians.

In Penticton, party leader Thompson said the choice for Canadians is between Social Credit and "the three debt parties."

He contended that "Social Credit is the answer to separatism."

In Montreal, separatist leader Marcel Chaput said the strength of the Social Credit party in Quebec will help the cause of Quebec independence.

"If they sweep Quebec... this will help make fore evident the cleavage between Quebec and the nine other provinces," he said.

Party Loyalties Blurred In New Brunswick Riding

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (CP)—Party loyalties are so blurred in Restigouche-Madawaska in this federal election campaign that voters may need a program to identify the candidates.

The Social Credit candidate is Leopold Dube, 39, an Edmundston lawyer. He was progressive Conservative organizer in last June's election and earlier contests and says many of his own organizers are disgruntled Conservatives.

The Conservative candidate is Louis Ayles, 35, a lawyer from Campbellton at the other end of the constituency, who handled publicity for the Liberals in 1962. He is immediate past president of the Restigouche County Young Liberals' Association.

Seeking re-election is Liberal Jean-Eudes Dube, 36, Mr. Ayles' law partner. He was first elected to Parliament last year with a 331-vote majority, unseating Conservative Edgar Fournier.

Louis Dufort of Edmundston, president of the Madawaska County Progressive Conservative Association, said in an interview his group will not support Mr. Ayles. He said the Conservative convention was not democratic and that Mr. Ayles is a political unknown except in Campbellton.

Mr. Dufort said his group decided against nominating any candidate but was overruled by national party headquarters.

"We decided this time that we were beaten before starting. Many Conservatives will support Social Credit," J. C. Van Horne, another Campbellton lawyer and businessman who was independent-minded Conservative MP for Restigouche-Madawaska from 1955 until he resigned in 1961, says he has no time for any political activity but supports Prime Minister Diefenbaker in the election campaign. He is a former law partner of Leopold Dube and says he tried unsuccessfully to get Mr. Dube to withdraw from the contest.

Leopold Dube's campaign manager is his father, Paul L. Dube, who represented the riding in Parliament as an independent Liberal from 1949 to 1953.

Largely rural and 80-per-cent the riding has been a weather-vane in many elections, usually following the national trend.

FREELoadERS TOO FRISKY

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania's fiscal factfinders have their eye on Pennsylvania's friskiest freeloaders—the Capitol Park squirrels.

Word has leaked out of the chash statement the squirrels may be cut off without a walnut.

The economy move started when Governor William Scranton, a newly-elected Republican, asked department heads to list what they would reduce or eliminate if they were called upon to cut their budgets by 25 per cent.

The department of property and supplies, in a memorandum to the budget office, duly noted that among other things it could save $100 a year by abandoning its squirrel program.

Mr. Pearson said in his Quebec City speech, made mostly in French, that "French Canadians do not occupy their rightful place in this country" and said a new Liberal government would undertake a national study on biculturalism.

He also hit hard at Social Credit.

"I know that the Social Credit party makes all kinds of promises," he said.

But Mr. Pearson said that if such promises were possible, including more money for everybody, even Premier Khrushchev would have Social Credit.

IT'S A MENACE
Social Credit is a menace because "if Social Credit manages to gain a substantial number of seats in this province, then it will be able to prevent the formation of a stable government," Mr. Pearson said.

Meanwhile, at Jonquiere, Que., Mr. Caouette described the critics of Social Credit as "imbeciles," "fools," "animals," "blood-suckers who are draining the poor," and "diabolical leaders."

He said Canadians gave or loaned financial and material aid worth $7,000,000,000 to Britain during the war. What was possible in helping the British should also be possible in helping Canadians.

In Penticton, party leader Thompson said the choice for Canadians is between Social Credit and "the three debt parties."

He contended that "Social Credit is the answer to separatism."

In Montreal, separatist leader Marcel Chaput said the strength of the Social Credit party in Quebec will help the cause of Quebec independence.

"If they sweep Quebec... this will help make fore evident the cleavage between Quebec and the nine other provinces," he said.

JET SLIDES IN SAFELY AFTER MISHAP

Sliding to "home base" damaged but otherwise safe. Is this Panam Boeing which came in for an emergency landing at Copenhagen, Denmark. The plane, carrying 42 passengers and a crew of nine, was proceeding from Oslo on its Stockholm - New York flight when landing gear trouble occurred. The runway at Copenhagen was sprayed with fire-preventing foam, and the huge jetliner made its safe landing.—(AP Wirephoto)

Many Seeking Religion In A Bargain Basement

Like bargain hunters in a bargain basement store, there are many people who are trying to dicker with God for an easy religion to get them into heaven rather than accept the vital faith which God offers to them.

They do not want a faith which will demand their dedicated interest, nor do they wish to part with their wealth to extend their hand of mercy. Yet these people wish to be known as respectable Christians when they allow everything under the sun to interfere with their loyalty to Christ—their social engagements, their entertainments, their self-interest, their treasure seeking plans are their primary motives.

Surely such unworthy attitude to God can only lead to spiritual disaster and moral ineptitude. These are demanding days in which we live, requiring urgency and full commitment to a loving God in service and sacrifice. Jesus said to His disciples, "take up thy cross daily and follow me." Re-inforcing this call to consecration the Apostle Paul challenged the Christians at Rome with these words: "I implore you by God's mercy to offer your very selves to Him: a living sacrifice, dedicated and fit for his acceptance, the worship offered by mind and heart." (Rom. 12:1.)

Sometimes we read in the newspaper advertisement for employment a description of the qualifications required for a particular job, and then the following words are appended, "others need not apply." Similarly, if we are not willing to come to God on His terms and in His way, "we need not apply." John Ruskin has properly understood the meaning of commitment when he wrote: "there are many things which the Lord will put up with in the human heart, but there is one thing he will not put up with . . . second place."

God's men are not found in the spiritual bargain basement of cheap religion; they are found in the upper room of power and prayer. Brave, honest and imaginative men are required to carry out God's commission to take His redemptive life changing message into all the world. Sir Wilfrid Grenfell, Dr. Albert Schweitzer, William Carey, are some of the men who took God seriously and brought light and healing to multitudes of people. William Benfield says that "too many of us have lost Christ's call to heroism and have grown comfortable and commonplace, small in minds and imagination." Our trouble is that our faith is too small; we are worshipping a god in our own image, little wonder we are failures.

Furthermore, how can we honestly pray for the missionary out-reach of the Church or for the hungry millions in the world while we are enjoying the increasingly luxurious cars, bigger and better mansions? Most of us are guilty of over-spending on ourselves and forget the call of God on our pocketbooks.

There is a story told of a miller who asked an apple grower, "How is it when I measured the five barrels of apples you sold me last week I was almost a barrel short?" "That's a fair question," the apple grower replied, "all I did was to send them to you in five of your own barrels." How true to life! When we short-change God, become miserly and miserably in our giving, we are the losers.

What will really count for God and for all time, is a faith that carries us through in loving, sacrificial service because He first loved us and gave Himself for us. This kind of faith will never be found in the Bargain Basement Religion.—Rev. K. Iwayoshi, First Baptist Church.

Election Dictionary

As the election campaign moves forward, the same words and phrases are being heard repeatedly, yet they seem to mean different things each time they are heard. To help our readers understand what they read or hear, the following short dictionary of election campaign phrases has been prepared:

STABLE GOVERNMENT: This means put in our party by a big majority. If it should happen to the other party, it would create an arrogant government and one heedless of the rights of parliament.

PRO-CANADIANISM: Anti-Americanism, or pulling the eagle's feathers.

VIGILANT OPPOSITION: This is what happens when we are out of power. When the other side does it, they are obstructionists.

DEFICIT SPENDING: This is when the other party's government spends more than it takes in. It is a sign of bad management. When our side does it, it is a far-seeing step to give a flip to the economy which the other side has left in awful shape.

BALANCED BUDGET: A pure fluke!

WELFARE MEASURES: Enlightened humanitarian measures inaugurated by us to make life better and more secure. If the other side promises such measures, then we are running madly into socialism.

SOUND TRADE POLICY: A system of trading by which our country exports more than it imports. Nobody has yet explained what happens if every country does this.

DISTINCTIVE CANADIAN FLAG: A fine topic if the candidate is stuck for something to say. It is especially valuable because nobody expects anything to be done about it.

UNLIMITED NATURAL RE-

SOURCES: A rousing platform subject. Our party will exploit them for everyone's benefit. If the other side does it, our heritage is being squandered.

DEFENCE POLICY: Very useful topic in areas where it is advisable to avoid mentioning the employment situation. It has infinite variations and you can say anything except that you do not believe the old Ross rifle should have been discarded.

FOREIGN POLICY: This is a tricky one and an eye has to be kept on Washington. Whatever the U.S. does, we have to take the other side. Otherwise we'll be camp-followers.

VIEWING WITH ALARM: This is what opposition parties do when it looks as if they are not going to make it.

POINTING WITH PRIDE: Only candidates of the former government can do this. Usually it only goes to prove that they have nothing up their sleeve.

UNEMPLOYMENT: Something the opposition parties regard as a national disgrace. In the government party's eyes, anyone who even uses the word is a saboteur and calamity-howler.

NATIONAL ANTHEM: The Queen—excepting when you are in Quebec.

TAXES: Something never mentioned by a government candidate but constantly talked about by opposition candidates.

ELECTION PROMISES: This means of bribing people with their own money.

MINORITY GOVERNMENT: The result of the inability of the electorate to make up its collective mind.

Air of Mystery Surrounds U.S. Choice of Envoy to Bonn

WASHINGTON (CP)—An air of mystery surrounds the appointment of George C. McGhee as the new U.S. ambassador to Bonn.

Why should an official holding the third most powerful post in the state department suddenly desire a transfer into the field, especially at a time when the White House is reported to be dissatisfied with department operations?

The department insists that the 51-year-old career diplomat, a one-time Rhodes Scholar who later made a fortune in oil, asked for a transfer and President Kennedy says he is sending McGhee to Bonn because of the importance of German-American relations.

THIS PART UNCLEAR

But a German source says he first heard the McGhee name mentioned as a possible ambassador about mid-February, shortly after the Canada-U.S. nuclear flare-up.

McGhee's link with the department's Jan. 30 public statement taking issue with Canadian government nuclear policy has never been clear. But as undersecretary of state for political affairs he undoubtedly would have a policy position to play in any political issue affecting Canada or other countries.

On Feb. 1 State Secretary Dean Rusk publicly apologized for the tone but not the content of the statement and on Feb. 4 Rusk took over from McGhee the job of defending the department's actions before a closed-door Senate foreign relations subcommittee investigation.

The matter might have rested there but for the Canadian election and a reporter's request on March 8 for comment by Rusk on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's statement that Canada-U.S. negotiations to provide Canadian troops with nuclear warheads are being maintained on a continuous and intermittent basis.

STATEMENTS VARY

Rusk replied at a press conference that, as indicated north of the border, the negotiations are continuing "intermittently" and that he expects the discussion "will go forward."

But two days later McGhee said in a taped Rochester, N.Y., television program the department doesn't want to discuss the issue any more with Canada because of the election campaign which, he figured, would solidify Canadian opinion as to when and whether Canada should obtain nuclear warheads.

McGhee said: "Now, we don't wish to continue this discussion largely because the Canadians are in the midst of having an election and we don't want to be accused of intervening again. But I assure you we feel that the matters under discussion are entirely matters that the Canadians should decide."

The following day a state department spokesman said the undersecretary was referring to the "public discussion" such as that which took place on Jan. 30, that there was no conflict between the remarks of Rusk and McGhee and that the negotiations were continuing "intermittently."

LETTER TO EDITOR

LONG LIVE THE KING!

Sir: I hope it is not too late to express through your paper the very great appreciation and enjoyment felt by everyone who saw "The King and I".

So many times a good performance comes and after the event has been reviewed the next day in the papers—somehow it is often forgotten or crowded out by current events.

Not so "The King and I". Here we are over a week after the first performance, enjoying its recognition in the columns of your paper.

What was there about it that made it so outstanding? To begin with, there was no hitch anywhere.

The singing, dresses, audibility of the performers—the excellent arrangement of the scene changes without any gaps in the whole performance—all these made for success.

The dancing might have come out of the famous "Peking Opera" performed at a former Vancouver festival by Chinese from Communist China.

The acting was of that quality which lifted the performance out of an ordinary play and made the scenes so real that one was led into the belief that one was watching something actual and alive.

Historically the play was of great interest and the children all doing their parts like professionals.

The whole thing was an intermezzo in the routine of our daily life—for three hours we forgot yesterday and we forgot tomorrow.

What more can be said? "SAKULIKA"

UNITED KINGDOM REPORT

Local Rates Under Fire

By M. McINTYRE MOOD

Special London (Eng.) Correspondent
For The Daily Courier

LONDON — Britain's rating system, on which local rates, or municipal taxes as they are more commonly known in Canada, are based, is under attack from all sides, with demands that the whole system be changed. This stems from a re-valuation of all properties now in effect for the first time, and the result of which has been a severe shock to the ratepayers in most municipalities.

In the revaluation, rental values or assessments, again to use the Canadian term, have been increased on an average about threefold. This in itself was not considered alarming, as the general feeling was that the higher assessments would bring correspondingly low tax rates, so that the ratepayers would pay roughly the same amount.

SOME LARGE INCREASES

Things have not, however, worked out that way. In nearly every municipality, while the actual tax rate has gone down substantially, there has been a substantial increase when compared with the former amount of actual taxes to be paid. Heavy expenditure increases by local councils and county councils have made it impossible for the higher assessments to be reflected in lower taxes. The public outcry over this is the most unanimous I have noted on many subjects in the last five years.

In parliament, members of all political parties are attacking the rate system which is being held responsible for the increases in taxes. A motion by 70 Conservative backbenchers calls for a full inquiry to be held into possible new methods of raising revenue for the municipalities.

It also calls for the financing of education to be transferred to the government and the load removed from the property taxpayers. In other quarters, a local income tax to take the burden off property is being suggested. It all sounds very reminiscent of similar arguments which have been going on for some years in the various provinces, with municipal taxpayers asking that governments take over the cost of some of the services, including education, now paid for largely by the municipal taxpayers.

It is considered very unlikely that Sir Keith Joseph, minister of housing and local government, will agree to the holding of a public inquiry, but the protests have been so widespread and cut across party political lines to such an extent that some remedial action is not unlikely.

What I referred to in an article about three or four months ago as Earl Mountbatten's plan for uniting the three defence services is to become an accomplished fact. Peter Thorneycroft, in a defence debate in the House of Commons, made it known that the three separate service departments of the Admiralty, War Office and the Air Ministry will shortly disappear. They will be coordinated within a new, unified Ministry of Defence, to which the three services will be responsible. Junior ministers, bearing the title of minister of state, will be in charge of the three services, but they will be subordinate to and responsible to the defence minister.

While this new system does not go as far as complete integration of the three fighting services, it is a big step forward towards more effective control of defence expenditures and will put an end to the integration of defence policy being hampered by the tendency of the three services to consider it solely from their own points of view. There will be no change in the present method of directing defence policy. This is done through the defence committee of the cabinet, presided over by the Prime Minister himself, and ultimately through the cabinet.

WELCOMED BY LABOR

One significant feature of this announcement was the manner in which it was received in the House of Commons. It was welcomed by Labor opposition spokesmen, who expressed the view that it was something that was long overdue.

BLOW TO MAULDING

This wages restraint policy of Chancellor Reginald Maudling, a policy which he inherited from Selwyn Lloyd, has been dealt a heavy blow by the electrical trades industry. This policy sought to restrain wage increases to a rate of two and a half per cent, and to hold the line tightly against any reduction in the hours of work per week. The aim of course, was to keep down production costs so as to make British industry full competitive in export markets.

The Electrical Trades Union and the National Federated Electrical Association, the employers' body, have, however, administered a decided slap to Mr. Maudling. They have reached a new agreement by which the 60,000 workers in the electrical contracting industry will have their work week reduced from 42 to 40 hours next year, and over the next three years they will receive wage increases annually to amount to a total of seven dollars a week. The agreement also gives the electrical workers the industry's first ever non-contributory sick scheme.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Smog Aids Emphysema

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Will you tell me something about emphysema?—L.L.

I'm sorry you missed earlier columns on this topic which is of increasing importance. At the last clinical session of the American Medical Association a good deal of stress was placed on it.

Emphysema is a loss of elasticity of the lungs. By this I don't mean that the lungs aren't large enough. Rather, they don't get SMALL enough.

Sounds like a paradox? It's not. Some people with emphysema develop over-sized chests, but they still are short of breath.

When you exhale, you expel a considerable volume of what we might call "used air." Then you inhale and replace it with an equal amount of fresh air.

But when the elasticity of the lungs is lost, you no longer can exhale as much. And you can inhale only the amount you have exhaled. Too much "used air" remains in the lungs and there is less space for fresh.

Smog and other forms of air pollution, are now a factor in emphysema. It isn't a new disease, but this is a new cause of it. But whatever the cause, you are starved for oxygen.

The answers? Some people haven't been using their lungs adequately in the first place, and learning to breathe more deeply brings into use a larger portion of the available breathing space.

Learning to stay within your limitations is another. Don't try to force yourself into exertion which uses up oxygen faster than you can replace it.

An occasional whiff of oxygen is used by many patients, since air is only part oxygen, and much of it is inert nitrogen. And there are other methods which can be employed, some of them much more complicated. But I trust that this gives you a working knowledge of what it is about.

If I forgot to mention it, since the problem is a lack of enough fresh oxygen, it is obviously harmful to waste any of the available lung space by filling it with smoke instead of air. In a word, your doctor is going to say that the first rule is to give up smoking. He means it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was in a bad automobile accident and ever since have had a buzzing and humming in my left ear which is so nerve-racking I can't sleep. Some doctors say an operation will help and some say it won't. Can you advise me.—M.K.

Some things in medicine are very predictable and others are decidedly not. This is one of the latter. No, I cannot advise you except to suggest that since the trouble is that annoying, if it were my own case I would give the operation a try, with the understanding that it might or might not succeed.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am nearly 16 and have a problem with stuttering. I can't say a simple phrase like "I'm going next door" without stuttering. Therefore I'm scared to death to give reports and speeches. My mother suggested reading out loud. Would that help? Please answer in your column as I have an oral book review to give in about a week and a half.—L.E.

Your mother's suggestion sounds excellent, but I wouldn't expect to accomplish miracles in a week and a half. If you can see some progress, then keep at it. I think you'll find that confidence and faith in yourself will be the biggest part of success. You might consider a special speech training class.

Woman's Institute Plan Rummage Sale

The regular monthly meeting of the East Kelowna Women's Institute was held on Tuesday last in the Community Hall with the Vice-president in the chair and eleven members present.

The meeting was called to order with the Collect of the A. C. W. W., minutes were read and the treasurer's report given.

Owing to the resignation of the President, Mrs. F. Mearns, Mrs. D. Evans was elected president for the remainder of the season, and Mrs. B. Riches was chosen delegate to the district Rally which will take place in Penticton. It was decided to purchase ten dozen tea spoons, and wool was then distributed to members to make children's socks for the Unifair Committee.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostesses Mrs. W. Murrell and Mrs. A. W. Rogers, brought the meeting to a conclusion.

Westbank Women's Institute Petitions For National Flag

Favoring the red ensign as Canada's national flag, members of Westbank Women's Institute decided at their March meeting to forward the following resolution in the form of a signed petition to federal member David Pugh: "We record it as our desire that the red ensign be officially adopted as the national flag of Canada."

Turned in as a response to the roll call for March were 14 aprons which will be a contribution to the Kelowna Hospital Fair scheduled for May. Next month's roll call is for toys for the Crippled Children's Hospital in Vancouver.

Guest speaker at the April meeting will be Miss Hughes-Games of Kelowna, recently retired after 38 years in the military field of southern India.

Mrs. J. N. Basham has invited members to her home for this occasion.

CWL APPOINTS OFFICERS

Mrs. Peter Gutenberg was elected president of the Catholic Women's League of Our Lady of Lourdes Church at the annual meeting held last week at the home of Mrs. H. A. Serwa. Retiring president is Mrs. E. J. Guidi. Re-elected as first vice-president was Mrs. Walter Formby, and Mrs. F. Dickson retained the office of secretary.

The meeting took the form of a pot-luck supper, and attending from Summerland was Rev. M. J. Guinan.

Jabez Basham, who spent the winter in Vancouver and at other coast points, is back in Westbank and staying with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Basham.

GARDEN CLUB

Holding its first annual meeting Tuesday evening in Westbank Community Hall is the Westbank Garden Club, with president A. M. Thompson in the chair. Following a review of the past year's activities and presentation of reports, there will be an election of officers for the ensuing season.

Organized in February of last year, membership now numbers over 30, and plans for this year include garden contests, which this season will be divided into two sections: large and smaller gardens.

This young club last September was awarded first place for district flower exhibits at Armstrong's Interior Provincial Exhibition, and with an increasing membership plans to exhibit again this fall.

A contribution from Mr. Thompson to be made at Tuesday's meeting is one of the finest of the new marigolds, "Climax".

Voice Of Women's Latest Project

TORONTO (CP)—The Voice of Women is collecting baby teeth across Canada in a program designed to find out how much harm is caused by nuclear weapons tests in Siberia, the Sahara and the South Pacific.

The national organization with international affiliates announced the teeth-collecting program Thursday as part of its continuing campaign to counter the causes of war.

Mrs. Kathleen Macpherson, acting VoW president, told a press conference the three-year-old organization has "never been more determined to work for the cause of peace and disarmament."

VoW members in seven cities will collect and catalogue fallen and extracted baby teeth to assist Dr. A. M. Hunt of the University of Toronto in research on the effects of radioactive strontium-90 from nuclear fallout on humans, particularly children.

Suffragettes Fell Prey To Cat-And-Mouse Game

LONDON (CP)—They chained themselves to the railing outside Buckingham Palace. They attempted to storm the House of Commons and in one of their more notable raids they broke every shop window in fashionable Oxford and Regent Streets. They were Britain's suffragettes and they were literally dragged through the streets, thrown into prison and forced to sleep through the night when they refused to eat.

They fell victims of the infamous cat-and-mouse act under which the home secretary, then Winston Churchill, was empowered to release them from prison when their health was endangered by fasting and re-arrest them when they recovered. They were opposed by the most formidable figures on the British scene at that time, including Queen Victoria, who said they should be whipped, and Lloyd George. Gradually they won almost unanimous public support, but, strangely enough, little or no actual help.

TRIUMPH IGNORED And when victory came many of the warriors were old or already in their graves. The triumph was back-page news. The age of the flappers was at hand and those who respected the benediction of their mothers, or simply weren't interested.

The suffragettes, creators of the "new woman," campaigned for equality in education, in the right of the law and in the professions and their battle was personified in the fight for the vote.

It was a story all but forgotten in modern-day Britain, but recently revived and retold in a vivid television documentary that brought the now-vague details into sharp focus.

The intriguing truth about the program — The Fanatics, produced by Granada, one of the independent commercial TV companies — was that it was done entirely with still photographs—thousands of them.

Wrote Mary Crozier of the Manchester Guardian: "If television develops the technique of using still pictures any further or better than it was used in The Fanatics we shall come to prefer them to film."

LED DULL LIFE The TV story began in the era when Victoria was actually the only free woman in the realm, when well-born women were treated like domestic pets, when fainting was fashionable and when playing vigorous games and even voting, winning, was considered vulgar.

In 1850 when a woman married, her income and property and her children became, in law, the property of her husband. At the other end of the scale women worked 16 hours a day hauling coal in the mines and finding relief in boisterous drunkenness.

Few challenging jobs were open to women; they were barred from the practice of law or medicine. In London alone there were 80,000 prostitutes.

It was against this background that a group of well-educated, upper-class women—'suffragettes' in the term of The Times—undertook the battle for equality.

By the time Victoria died the "new woman" had already started to emerge. Florence Nightingale had given them their first respectable profession. Fashions became less grand, bloomers were popular and women started taking part in sports more challenging than croquet.

VOYAGE BARRED But still, in the next 10 years, three private members' bills for the vote for women were thrown out of the House of Parliament. The campaign heated up. Parades became riots; by 1918 some 1,000 mounted police were required to control crowds at London demonstrations. Thousands were injured or imprisoned. Wealthy women gave up their jewelry to finance the fight.

Just when public support had swept the suffragettes to within grasp of their goal the First World War broke upon the country and they abandoned their cause to throw themselves into war work.

Old barriers fell right and left. Women found a need and staffed hospitals at the front, at home they manned fire brigades, went to work in factories and on the farms.

From then on the "new woman" was a fact, and although she was still not equal, it was just a matter of time before she got the vote.

The day had been hastened by the most dramatic act of the campaign, when the suffragettes got their first martyr in a woman who threw herself under the king's horse in the 1913 Derby.

It came, for women over 30, in 1918. Ten years later the age limit was cut to 21—but the jarringly flappers just didn't seem to care.

SHOWER HONORS Recent Bride

WESTBANK — A miscellaneous bridal shower given at the home of Mrs. Pearl Kennedy early last week honored a former Westbank bride, Miss Joyce Schneider whose marriage to Art Hall, of Winfield took place in a quiet ceremony in Penticton earlier this month.

With her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider, Miss Schneider moved to Naramata last November after 18 years residence in Westbank. There they have taken over the Naramata Coffee Shop, and with this in mind, shower hostesses Mrs. C. F. Hoskins and Mrs. Russell Campbell arranged and set a "catered table," beneath and around which the numerous gifts were piled.

Present from Naramata besides the guest of honor Mrs. Hall were her mother, Mrs. Schneider, and her sister, Miss Linda Schneider. Besides those attending from Westbank and district were a number of Kelowna guests, and all were glad of the opportunity to extend good wishes to the recent bride. Many more, unable to attend, sent gifts, and following their opening a happy social evening was spent, after which refreshments were served.

WIFE PRESERVERS

TAKE IT A hard paint brush can be softened by boiling it for fifteen minutes in an old can with enough vinegar to cover the bristles.

The light is green. And the word is GO.

Dear Ann Landers: When are girls going to get smart and demand the same standard of virtue that the boys demand of them?

The guy who wants to play around with tramps while he's dating and then expects a good girl when he's "ready for something important like marriage" ought to be sent to the bargain basement right along with the girls he helped put here.

I've been talking this way for a long time, Ann. When I was in high school girls told me I'd never find a boy with standards that high. But I found him, and I married him, and I'll wager he is more manly than those creeps who had so much "proving" to do before marriage.

I'm sure I didn't get the only good guy in the world. There must be others left. Happy hunting, Gals. — MISS LUCKY

Dear Luck: Not all boys demand white-flower girls for marriage, but I agree that those who do should have an unimpaired record themselves.

UBC "Blitz" By Students In Vernon

VERNON (Staff) — Over the weekend 18 University of British Columbia students brought the fight for funds for higher education to the people of Vernon.

Under the chairmanship of Hugh Large, the Vernon Student Action Committee gathered signatures on a petition urging the provincial government to provide increased funds for higher education in B.C.

Friday the committee organized their campaign, contacted local organizations and canvassed the business area.

On Saturday the students campaigned in earnest. With the help of 30 local high school students a city wide door-to-door blitz was staged. Students explained the issues to housewives, secured their signatures on a petition and urged them to write to their M.L.A.

Downtown booths were set up at Eaton's, Safeway, Hudson's Bay and on the old post office corner. A booth was also set up at Henri's Shop Easy in Lavington.

By 9 p.m. Saturday, 3,859 signatures had been gathered with petitions still to come in.

Chairman Large expressed satisfaction at the support the students had been given by local residents. He said local service clubs and organizations were extremely helpful, particularly the Vernon Chamber of Commerce, North Okanagan Teachers' Association and the UBC Alumni Association.

Students returned to UBC by bus Sunday to catch up on lectures missed and to resume studies.

AROUND VERNON

VERNON (Staff) — Vernon and District Credit Grantors' Association monthly meeting was held in the Lotus Gardens over the weekend with Carl Wylie in the chair. About 40 members and visitors were present.

Committees appointed were: membership and attendance; Kay Charter, Jim Clabius, and Ona Appaci. Education: Bill Palmer, Eva Usick, Don Tallon, and Derek Nosko. Program: Cy Gilbert, Ken Walker, Norm Klassen and Jack Passmore. Legislative: Al Sarges, Jack Halvorson, and Lloyd Brown.

Following a short business meeting, Mr. Wylie gave an address dealing with petty fraud. Next meeting is scheduled for April 9.

COLLEGE MOVE

VERNON (Staff) — At the executive council meeting held last week, the Vernon Chamber of Commerce endorsed a brief prepared for the city by solicitor Neil A. Davidson urging that the proposed Okanagan College be located in Vernon.

The city brief, which has the endorsement of council, Goldstream and Lumby to date, is also expected to be endorsed by various service clubs. The brief calls for a Vernon-based secondary school to be located in Vernon, as opposed to a site near Kelowna as recommended in the Macdonald report on higher education. The brief is expected to be presented to the provincial cabinet this week.

Okanagan Canal Link Discussed

VERNON (Staff) — The idea of a North Okanagan waterway canal linking the Shuswap to the Okanagan Lake is not a new one, the Vernon Chamber of Commerce noted after publicity was given last president Lionel Mercer's call for such a project. But the chamber has taken the stand that a canal could prove of tremendous benefit to the area from Kamloops Lake to Penticton.

The chamber states there are three important benefits that could accrue from this project. • Irrigation — It is estimated that 140,000 acres of farmland could be irrigated by the provision of additional water. • The canal could probably be source of water supply to Okanagan Lake if and when needed.

• Tourist potential — It is not difficult, the release states, to realize the impact of a waterway extending from Penticton to the south to Kamloops Lake 200 miles to the north-west, where boat enthusiasts could sail for 200 miles through beautiful and varied scenery.

With this in mind, the chamber release states it could be mentioned that the usage now being made of the old lake locks in the Peterborough, Ont., area has made that part of Canada a boating and vacation paradise.

The Vernon Chamber of Commerce committee was formed to look into the project and will be headed by Mr. Mercer.

LIFT BIDAULT BAN

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Prime Minister Menzies has lifted a ban on Australian television companies showing the BBC interview with French anti-Gaullist leader Georges Bidault. Menzies said senior ministers had decided, since there was no restriction on newspaper or movie use of the interview, a ban on TV use was discriminatory.

OH MY ACHING FEET—SAY FALKLAND HIKERS

President Kennedy's keep-fit program spread to the North Okanagan Saturday, when 13 Vernon Junior High School students attempted to walk to Falkland and return to Vernon, a distance of 32 miles. Only three came within finishing close when they gave up at the 41 miles. Here, Len Calvert, 15, left, Larry Drew, 14, two of the finishers, George

Sadosky, 15, and Richard Dockstader, 14, take time out to rub those tired feet. Garry Honeyman, 15, (not shown) was the third boy who quit at 41 miles. This was a try-out only, the group declared. Next project, Vernon to Kelowna, which they figure they can do in record time. The group left from Vernon at 5:30 a.m. and quit at 8:30 p.m. (Courier Photo)

Unemployment Cancer "Eats" Canadian Economy

VERNON (Staff)—Mrs. Isabelle Potocary, New Democratic Party candidate for Okanagan-Revelstoke in the April 8 federal election said at Malakwa over the weekend that one of the most important problems in Canada today is unemployment.

"It is a cancer eating at the very heart of our economy and the moral fibre of our society," she said and charged that "the Conservative government's technical school program was merely a partial step towards the elimination of the causes of unemployment."

A New Democratic government she said will set up a social capital fund to provide money for new schools, hospitals, and low cost housing developments. "Such an aggressive program," she said "will mean immediate work for people now unemployed in addition to providing essential facilities of which people have been deprived through past governments lack of planning. Such a fund would thus also stimulate secondary industry needed to arrest the flow of raw resources south of the border," she said.

Canada should manufacture its own raw materials into finished goods she said and it will create thousands of jobs in this country. It would provide millions of jobs required to absorb the young people who will come onto the labor market in the next 10 years. "These steps must be taken at once," she told her audience.

SQUEEZED OUT Mrs. Potocary noted there were "a great number of small logging operators in the area being forced out of business by the increasing monopolistic practices by the giants in the industry."

She said this was the trend in most Canadian industries. She urged the government to take action that would increase the number of small operators by making available long term low interest loans to help them get established rather than leave them to the "tender mercies of the giant corporations."

"Forming communities require immediate assistance," Mrs. Potocary stated. "As income has declined 20 per cent while costs have climbed 24 per cent and the consumer does not reap the benefit. Prices to the consumer have gone up seven per cent in the past decade and all this time the government has sat idle while Massey-Ferguson's profits went up 519 per cent between 1946 and 1950," she charged.

Speaking on health, Mrs. Potocary said the NDP would institute a national medicare plan. "Health is not a privilege for the rich but the right of everyone," she said.

TOO SLOW Dealing with armaments, Mrs. Potocary said the Bomarc and Honest John missile bases were established to chase slow bombers. "They are fully outdated," she said. "They won't get a weapon off the ground much less catch up with the intercontinental ballistic missile travelling at 26,000 miles an hour."

She said: "The 100-megaton bomb will burn to ashes everything for 100 miles in every direction. The U.S. and Russia have enough fire power and explosive power to deliver the equivalent of 50 tons of dynamite to every man, woman and child on earth," she said, and added "what can Canada do to that state of madness?"

Track Record Falls At Legion Meet

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ernie Cunliffe broke the Canadian indoor record for the half-mile and Dave York cleared the 16-foot barrier in the pole vault to provide the highlights of the Royal Canadian Legion's Golden Boy Relays Saturday night.

Cunliffe, a United States Air Force lieutenant from Oxyard, Calif., finished two-tenths of a second ahead of Donald Smith of the Toronto Olympic Club in one minute 52.8 seconds.

Both Cunliffe and Smith were well under the old mark of 1:55 set by Don Bertola of Rossland, B.C., and Washington State University, who was unable to complete because of a missed pace connection.

Dave York of the Toronto East York Track Club was third, more than six seconds behind Cunliffe.

Another Canadian indoor mark was tied when Stan Johnson of South Dakota State University won the 60-yard sprint in 6.1 seconds, equalling the record held jointly by Harry Jerome of Vancouver and Bob Fisher-Smith of Ottawa.

Johnson was only a tenth of a second ahead of Larry Dunn of Arizona, an intern at Toronto General Hospital competing for East York. Bill Stevens of Minneapolis was third.

Fighting And Penalties Mar NOHL Semi-Final

VERNON (Staff) — A pair of weekend victories has started Lumby Flying Frenchmen well on their way to the North Okanagan hockey league supremacy for the second year in a row.

Winner of the Mc and Mc trophy for the NOHL championship last season the Frenchmen moved into this year's finals with Grindrod Elks by a 7-1 victory over the Grandview Warriors Saturday night.

Sunday at Vernon Civic arena the Lumbyites went one game up in the best of five finals, trouncing the Elks 6-1 before more than 350 fans.

In the Saturday game the Frenchies made no mistake as the outscored the Warriors 4-1 in the opening period, then tallied three more goals in the middle period to take the third game of the semi-final series two games to one.

The Frenchmen-Warrior game was a rough and tumble affair which left little pleasure in most fans' minds.

There were 23 penalties handed out plus two match misconducts which saw Bob Hay and Garth Gill ejected from the game. Of the penalties, 16 were two-minute minors and six were majors for a total of 11 minutes handed out by referees Mickey Ogassawara and Ted Paromchuck.

BOTH BLAMED

Both sides were as much to blame for the type of hockey, as Lumby players were sent off the ice 11 times and Grandview picked up 12 plus the two-match misconducts.

Gary Roland of Lumby and Garth Gill from the Warriors climaxed the penalty-riddled game at the halfway point of the final period when they started to swing at each other. When it was over, Gill was on his way to the showers for striking Referee Ogassawara with his gloved hand while in the penalty box.

Gill also picked up five minutes for fighting and a 10 minute misconduct. For his part in the melee, Roland received two minutes for hooking and five for fighting.

Gary Anderson paced Lumby to the Saturday victory with a bat trick, while teammates Joe Ostrass, Dave Patten, Merv Koski and Leroy Martin scored singles. Ron Cooper also had a big night for the Frenchmen as he assisted on three markers.

Lone Warrior tally of the night came late in the first period when veteran Tom Gill went in alone to beat Vern Smith neatly on a shot to the lower left side of the net.

EASY WIN

Fresh from the Saturday win Lumby came back to the Vernon rink Sunday and easily outscored and played Grindrod Elks for a 6-1 win.

Compared to the previous game, it was a dull brand of hockey as only on brief occasions did either side show flashes of playing seriously. Sluggish passing and mud ice bunching were the main offences with the Elks mostly at fault as they could do little better than get to the Lumby baseline a major part of the time.

Lumby outshot Elks 44-22. Big gun for Lumby was Ron Cull who picked up a hat trick and assisted on two goals. Singles went to Pete Balthwell, Gary Anderson, and Bob Glenn. Hard working Ron Cooper was given credit on four assists in the Lumby cause.

The best goal of the night went to Elks' Merv Humphrey who teamed with young Daryl Kosimaki at 8:40 of the second frame to go in on goalie Vern Smith after beating a pair of Frenchmen at their own blue-line with Humphrey out-guessing Smith at the last second.

Two Minor Penalties were handed out in the Sunday game with Don Roland and Ron Cull of Lumby getting the nod in each case.

Second game of the series goes again Tuesday night at Vernon and the third moves to Salmon Arm Wednesday. Both games start at 8 p.m.

Interior Indians Making Bid To Show They Do Not Care Less

Ambitious Indians of the British Columbia Interior have launched a campaign to become self-sufficient in contrast to a "couldn't care less" group, their legal adviser disclosed Sunday.

The National Indian Council of Canada decided at Kamloops in a weekend meeting to bid for more and easier-to-obtain credit for Indians establishing businesses.

Henry Castillou, council legal adviser, said they also want a federal economic expert sent to their area to assess the potential of resources on their reserves.

"Many of them are becoming aware they have valuable resources," he said. They want to develop their own reserves. A lot couldn't care less, but many of them do care."

As part of their self-betterment campaign, the Indian decided to ask the federal government to increase the revolving loan fund set up to help Indians, from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000. They also want the fund regulations eased to permit easier loans.

Mr. Castillou said the Indians are eager to establish small businesses, such as hotels or car repair shops, or become farmers.

They wanted training in crafts to escape seasonal work.

As the temperature increases, so badminton activities decrease. However there are still several events past and future, on the calendar and here are a few of them.

Twelve members of the local club spent a very enjoyable night in Penticton Thursday playing members of the Penticton club in men's, ladies' and mixed doubles events. A return match in Kelowna is planned within the next two weeks.

Bob Brooks of Kelowna was elected president of the Okanagan-Mainline Badminton Association at a meeting held in Salmon Arm March 10. Other officers include Jack Humphries of Vernon, secretary-treasurer.

At an executive meeting held Monday night at the Kelowna Badminton Club, it was decided that the playing season should terminate on April 9. Members voted to end the year with a small bang, a social night, that is—so several interested persons were nominated to "gather the gunpowder."

One point brought out at the meeting was that while the majority of club members move on to other activities after the regular season is over, there are some true badminton buffs who would enjoy playing throughout the summer. If you are one of these, you should contact Bob Brooks.

If you would like to try your hand at picking out the senior champions for 1973, drop in to the Kelowna Badminton Club, March 30 and 31. These are the dates when the Okanagan-Mainline Junior Tournament will take place for players 19 years and under.

You can see the club is still twitching so don't put that racquet away yet.

McMaster Crowned Champs Thunderbirds Embarrassed

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—McMaster Marliners, taking full advantage of a gift penalty to their opponents, won the first Canadian college hockey championship this weekend but had to fight for it all the way.

The Marliners, heavy pre-tournament favorites, barely got out of the first round with a 4-3 victory over St. Francis Xavier Friday night. And they took a fearful thumping before subduing University of British Columbia Thunderbirds 3-2 in the final game Saturday.

UBC, nucleus of the team that will represent Canada at the Olympic Games next winter, came out of the first period with a raft of penalties and a 1-1 tie as they knocked over incoming McMaster forwards at every opportunity.

But the penalty that really hurt came in the second period for having too many men on the ice.

Mike Smith paused to play a loose puck on his way to the Thunderbird bench while his replacement jumped onto the ice. Fifteen seconds after he went off, Jim McLean gave the Marliners a 2-1 lead, which increased to 3-1 before UBC got organized.

The embarrassed T-Birds got one goal back before the period ended, but that was all.

The X-Men from Antigonish, N.S., whose cliff-hanger against McMaster was the highlight of the open play night's play, downed the University of Sherbrooke 7-4 in a consolation match Saturday morning. Sherbrooke lost its first-round game to UBC 6-2 Friday.

After the tournament, Wren Blair, farm director of Boston Bruins, said three Marliners and two X-Men have been put on the Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey League club's negotiation list. They are Bill Osborne, Bob Pond and Bill Mahoney of McMaster and Anderson Pete and Wayne Synchala of the Maritime college.

Mahoney, chosen most valuable player and all-star centre of the tournament, scored the first goal against UBC and finished as the tournament scoring leader with two goals and four assists.

McLean and Gen Hamada were the other McMaster marksmen. Gene Lortie and Peter Kelly replied for UBC.

The Thunderbirds got tremendous goaltending from Len Broderick, another tournament star who formerly played for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group, and a hard-hitting defensive play from defencemen Barry McKenzie and Terry O'Malley.

Both MacKenzie and O'Malley played under UBC coach Rev. David Bauer for Toronto St. Michael's College Majors, 1961 Memorial Cup champions.

Russia Wins Hockey Title Trail Makes Bad Showing

STOCKHOLM (CP)—"Something has to be done to stimulate interest in Canadian hockey," says Art Potter after Canada's worst-ever showing in world hockey.

Potter, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, praised Trail Smoke Eaters' fighting spirit of the Olympics after their 4-2 loss Sunday to Russia, the new world champions.

But he said Canada never again will win the world title unless it sends the pack of its best players and gives them plenty of time to work as a team before the championships.

Canada finished fourth in the 1963 championships, its lowest spot in the history of world and Olympic competition going back to 1920 when the first Winter Olympics were held at Antwerp, Belgium, and Winnipeg Falcons won the hockey gold medal.

"This goes to show again," said Ivan Temple, president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association, "that it just isn't good enough to pick up a whole team and send it into world competition."

Only the scores of the games played by the top five teams were counted. Russia scored 11 goals and allowed six for a difference of eight. Sweden had 12 goals against five for a difference of seven.

Sweden's national team, tagged "the greatest of all time" by the Swedish press, entered the final day of the 10-day tournament undefeated. But Czechoslovakia, a better skating and passing team, beat the Swedes 5-2.

A capacity crowd of 16,000 cheered the Canadians for the first time in the tournament.

From Canada's best from all over the country in the same way as the Russians and Swedes.

Russia won its second world crown by netting goal in goal spread—the difference between goals scored and goals allowed. It was the smallest margin ever to decide a winner, although there have been different systems used to break a tie.

Russia and Sweden each won six and lost one in the seven-round tournament and tied with 12 points. Russia defeated Canada by two goals to pick up the margin for the higher goal spread.

Dates Changed For Horse Show

The Oliver International Horse Show and Mounted Games has changed its date this year from the well-known second Saturday to May 4 and 5.

The reason for this change was brought about by the incorporation of British Columbia's first approved quarter horse show on Saturday, May 4.

This new date enables competitors who want to attend the Oliver competition to follow it up with the show in Calgary.

This international show has gained the distinction of being one of the fastest moving shows held, both from a spectators and participant viewpoint.

CABLE CAR PLUMMETS 90 FEET

A Franconia, New Hampshire cable car, which fell 90 feet when its cable broke, is seen here where it ended up in a Cannon Mountain snow bank. Fortunately only one person was aboard the car when the accident occurred. He was 20-year-old Ronald Broderick and he was reported in serious condition. Broderick was one of a party of seven men making a routine check of the cars before the ski park was opened. — (AP)

Queen Meets "Leper Hunter" Up In Australia's Far North

DARWIN (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip made an unscheduled call today at the home of Waipudanya Wadiri, a 42-year-old Australian doctor who has been known among the natives of Australia's far north as "the leper hunter."

Waipudanya, 42, whose "white" name is Philip Roberts, is the northern territory's most famous aborigine. He is an initiated Alawa tribesman, born in the bush beside the Roper River, near the Gulf of Carpentaria, 400 miles east of Darwin.

As high priest of the Kunapli fertility rites, his authority reaches through a hundred tribes, from the Gulf west to the Kimberley ranges and Darwin, 1,000 miles south of the Aranda, the Pitjantjarra and other des-brother was confined for many years to Darwin Leprosarium. The Queen and the prince asked Philip about his work and he told them "the government is very good to us."

The Queen opened this last day of her five-day visit to the territory with a broadcast from the royal yacht Britannia. Later she and her husband drove to Darwin Oval, where nearly 10,000 people — two-thirds of the population and the biggest crowd ever to gather in Darwin for any event — waited for a civic reception.

LOCATES LEPROSY

His fame has come from a series of lone expeditions into the wilds of Arnhem land, seeking native lepers and persuading them to come to Darwin for treatment.

Waipudanya regards leprosy as a personal enemy. It killed his mother and his younger

Fleming Heads Task Force In Carrying On Government

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fleming is heading a small task force of federal ministers who are carrying on the machinery of government while their more active political colleagues stump the country in the April 8 election campaign.

Mr. Fleming, retiring from politics for personal reasons, has been serving as acting prime minister when Mr. Diefenbaker is away from the capital.

Other ministers forming the rear guard of the cabinet are Senator Wallace McCutcheon, minister of trade, State Secretary Halpenny and Immigration Minister Bell.

Neither Senator McCutcheon nor Mr. Halpenny is seeking office and they are able to spend most of their time in the capital. Mr. Bell, seeking re-election in the Ottawa area riding of Carleton, has been concentrating his election activities in Ottawa and eastern Ontario communities, thus remaining handy for federal government business when it arises.

MEET WEEKLY

Mr. Fleming said in an interview that the cabinet has been holding meetings about once a week in the prime minister's absence, handling mostly routine business that must be transacted.

He is also in daily telephone communication with Mr. Diefenbaker about the course of the Conservative election campaign.

NOT MUCH NEWS

But cabinet meetings in Mr. Diefenbaker's absence are unproductive in the way of news. If any major decisions are made, they are left for announcement either by ministers in their campaign speeches or through press releases carefully timed to do the government the most good in the campaign.

A major meeting of the cabinet is scheduled for Monday, after three new ministers—Forestry Minister Asselin, and Ministers without portfolio Richard and McGee—are sworn into office. The prime minister will preside and External Affairs Minister Green is returning from his west coast campaign to attend.

Mr. Diefenbaker will leave immediately after the meeting to resume his campaign in Ontario and Western Canada.

Douglas Taking Much Trouble To Explain His Fiscal Policies

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—T. C. Douglas is taking pains to define for the voters what the party means by economic planning in contrast to what he says the other parties indicate when they use the same expression.

Launching a four-point swing through Ontario in this industrial city of 63,000 Friday night, the national New Democratic Party leader stressed that his party differs from the others in considering social welfare programs as essential ingredients of a plan for economic recovery in Canada.

He told a crowd that took up most of the 1,000 chairs in a high school gymnasium that the Liberals place such things as pensions and health care separate and secondary to economic planning.

The Liberal idea of economic stimulation is "to give the fat cats on top more and more profits on the theory that some of it will trickle down."

"We believe in the trickle-up theory."

Speaking in the headquarters of General Motors of Canada, Mr. Douglas said: "We do not believe that what is good for General Motors is good for the nation." The interests of all levels of society must be represented in economic planning.

Mr. Douglas flew to Ottawa after the meeting.

CREATE INDUSTRIES

An industrial development fund could create industries for processing Canadian raw materials at home and remove the situation whereby "we are exporting jobs when we send raw material out of the country to be processed."

Mr. Douglas countered the conventional fear that such programs would cause government spending to outstrip revenue with a brief lesson on the theories of late British economist John Maynard Keynes—the idea of a balanced economy rather than a balanced annual budget.

Government spending should be geared to the national need, he said—heavy in years when the economy needs stimulation and lighter when inflation threatens.

The audience applauded the economic lesson politely but saved its heartiest responses for a brief reference to the need for a Saskatchewan-style medical care program and for his windup appeal for a halt to the spread of nuclear arms.

Mr. Douglas flew to Ottawa after the meeting.

New, Old Slogans Sum Up Hopes Of Touring Dief

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Two slogans—old and new—summed up Prime Minister Diefenbaker's election hopes and campaign appeal as he stepped from Quebec through the Atlantic provinces last week.

At Halifax Friday the Conservative leader spoke beneath a banner proclaiming "Nova Scotia the first to say, 'No Diefenbaker all the way.'"

It's an old slogan harking back to election night in 1958 when East Coast polls, the first in Canada to close, showed a party sweep in Nova Scotia that presaged the Conservative landslide victory then.

In this campaign Mr. Diefenbaker hasn't talked much about the 1962 election results that put the government's record on a shaky minority position. Instead he tells almost every audience about some of the big crowds he has had in the last two weeks of campaigning.

"It's rolling, it's rolling everywhere," he told a hand-shaking well-wisher at a whistle stop at Lunenburg, N.S.

NEW SLOGAN SLOGGOMS

The other slogan—new this year—appeared on the walls of a small movie house at Summerside, P.E.I., where a surprising crowd of about 800 turned up despite the hour, 10:30 a.m., and snow-filled country roads.

"Vote Canadian, vote Conservative," said the signs.

The "made in Canada" tag the government's "Canadians that Mr. Diefenbaker placed on first policy on Arctic oil development to his repeated assertions that he took "a stand for Canada" in the government's policy on nuclear weapons.

But the same idea has been present, from his references to

Friction Splits Old Parties In Former Victoria Bastion

VICTORIA (CP)—The federal constituency of Victoria has long been a bastion for the old-line parties.

Since 1911 when British Columbia entered Confederation, the riding that once sent Sir John A. Macdonald to Parliament without even a visit from him has returned either Conservative or Liberal. Rocklike voting support and party discipline have left little opening for other parties to exploit.

Now, however, there is friction and division within the constituency's Progressive Conservative and Liberal associations, stemming from the close fight between the arch rivals in the federal election last June 18.

Then, A. Deb McPhillips, PC, defeated Foster Isherwood, Liberal, by 216 votes.

At nomination meetings for the April 8 election, both parties respected last year's standards, bearers in favor of candidates Phillips out of politics.

minister has stated his campaign is pro-Canadian, not anti-American.

At Summerside he spoke of "powerful interests a gainst me," and later made clear he was referring to U.S. oil companies which didn't like his Arctic oil policy.

CLAIMS U.S. INFLUENCE

In criticism of Liberal nuclear policy, he has suggested that Liberal leader Pearson's position for acquiring warheads was taken after speaking with "some American generals."

Mr. Diefenbaker has spoken frequently on the nuclear issue, although he told a Saint John, N.B., press conference that it was a declining issue in the campaign.

In this election, Conservative strategists say the party—despite its position as the government party—is the underdog as it was in 1957. They made no secret that they like it that way.

In the underdog role, Mr. Diefenbaker has spent almost as much time attacking the Liberals as in defending the government's record.

In every speech there is the suggestion that the Liberals obstructed legislation and "degraded Parliament."

TV Ratings Challenged By U.S. Trade Commission

WASHINGTON—Your favorite television program goes to air, deemed by low ratings.

Just how accurate are these ratings? The Federal Trade Commission, a U.S. government agency, last week it catalogued a variety of faults with the way the three biggest rating services measure audience, including both the way they gather data and the way they announce their findings.

The services involved were the Pulse, Inc., C.E.I.R. (parent company of American Research Bureau) and E.C. Nielsen Co.

The FTC said all three have agreed to stop misrepresenting the accuracy of their radio and television audience measurements and to stop using bad survey techniques. But the awesomeness of their decimal findings is expected to continue this way.

"The television is like the company who keeps saying 'I'm still world's best' and last loved dish wash."

These were some of the listening or tuning.

Pulse, said the FTC, adjusts "sets-in-use" figures upward by 20 per cent for morning programs and 40 per cent for evening programs "without research to justify such adjustments."

Other Pulse shortcomings included use of data from reports containing a general performance of a person, not what he actually saw.

The FTC also said that while all three services say they measure an accurate sample of the total audience, this is not so. Since their rating techniques rely on use of accurate samples, the reliability of the final ratings cannot be determined.

The services will now have to qualify their reports and to change some of the ways they get their data. This is unlikely to be much help to quality programs that died—or will die—because of ratings.

ABC audits of Daily Newspapers are NEVER CHALLENGED!

Daily newspaper circulation figures are, above all, ACCURATE — no errors — not even a margin of error. The Audit Bureau of Circulations, controlled by advertisers and advertising agencies, makes every newspaper account for every copy it prints.

ABC Audits are not guesses, not surveys, not ratings — they are an ACCURATE COUNT of daily newspapers bought by people.

Daily Newspapers — the best meeting place for advertisers and their customers.
